RALPH ROBRAHN gives youth witness at Belfast Convention.

International Society at Belfast

By Ralph E. Robrahn Associate President

What happens to the leadership of one Christian Endeavor organization when over 20 countries of the world und their respective organizations come together for a convention? That leadership is used and used very effectively. Such was true of the International Society of Christian Endeavor the 15th World's Convention in Belfast.

One of the most prominent International Society representatives was Harold E. Westerhoff. General Secretary of both the International Society and the World's Union, Mr. Westerhoff served also as the convention director. The convention could be termed a success in many ways because of his antiring and unstinting service and eadership.

Bishop Clyde W. Meadows also played an important role. Past presilent of the International Society and now president of the World's Union, Bishop Meadows proved again his great leadership abilities. Each evening he convened the great public neetings with prayer. He chaired the mportant meetings of the World's Union Council. It was his privilege and honor to meet and greet His Excellency the Governor of Northern reland, the Lord Erskine of Rerrick; he Rt. Hon. Terence M. O'Neill, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland; he Rt. Hon, the Lord Mayor of Belfast, Major W. D. Geddis. At the closing service on Sunday evening, Bishop Meadows challenged the delegates to go forth under the theme of "Jesus Christ Is Lord."

We can be justly proud of our president, Arch J. McQuilkin. In leading the Quiet Hour on Friday morning, Mr. McQuilkin again displayed his simple presentation of his living faith—something which many of us have come to know and appreciate. His leadership was recognized by the World's Union when he was elected as a trustee. At the close of the convention many had come to know and to love our president.

This convention was unusual—as far as International Society participation is concerned—in that all the administrative personnel were present. Besides Mr. Westerhoff, Phyllis I. Rike, administrative secretary, led a Senior sectional conference on "Christian Endeavor Principles" and Rev. Christian A. Tirre, educational secretary, led a general conference on "Equipping for Leadership."

Still other International Society people were involved in the convention program. Mrs. Ernest R. Bryan of Washington, D. C., honorary field secretary of the World's Union, was the leader of a general conference on the theme of "Prayer." The German deaconesses were led in study by Frances M. Becker of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, vice-president. Ralph E. Robrahn, associate president, gave the youth witness at the opening session on Wednesday evening.

Dr. Allan J. Blair, chairman of the Finance Committee, also serves as chairman of the World's Union Finance Committee. Gordon McMordie, general secretary of the Pennsylvania Union, used his wit and wisdom in leading a Young People's sectional conference on "Christian Endeavor Essentials." Merritt L. Smith and Mrs. Hope Norris, both members of the Executive Committee of the International Society, were also present.

The international aspect of our organization was made evident by the presence and participation of Rev. T. Melville Bailey and Carlos A. Castillo M., presidents of the Canadian and Mexican Unions respectively.

These then are some of the participants in the World's Convention. But something also took place wherebevery person who represented North America could participate. On Fridatevening we hosted a banquet for the leaders and speakers at historic Befast Castle. Good food, ancient setting, excellent fellowship, distinguished guests, toastmaster par excellence (Arch McQuilkin): all of the contributed to what was a successful and charming evening.

All of the International Society delegates acted as hosts and hostesse. The delegates from around the worl went away from that gathering in pressed by the fact that our delegate had indeed participated in a significant way in the World's Convention

We left Belfast happy and ver thrilled. We each breathed a praye as we went our various ways. I said prayer for Christian Endeavor International and all that it meant to the 15th World's Convention.

A Mexican Looks at Belfast By Carlos A. Castillo M., President, Mexican Union

There are no words to express the most wonderful impression of being a participant of the 15th World's Convention held in Belfast this summer. Such a blessing will be cherished for the rest of our lives, because it reassures us that our movement, which has no barriers of race or color, is strong—and it is strong because our leader is Lord over all: Jesus Christ.

One cannot think of the World's Convention without remembering the hospitality of the Belfast Endeavorers which is a characteristic of the people from Ulster. With a chairman like

Rev. F. Rupert Gibson, all of the work arranged and done by the Convention City Committee was led to complete success. Having the opportunity to participate with Mr. Gibson radio broadcasts and in sever other events during the convention made me know better the work conducted by him.

Of the many things which were in pressive to me, one was the coverage which the press, through the loonewspapers and the radio through the BBC world and city broadcasts, gas our grand convention. A whole edition

THESE GERMAN DELEGATES were among the many who were constantly snapping photos of every event.

A Canadian Looks at Belfast

By Rev. T. Melville Bailey President, Canadian Union

"What in the world are you doig?" Two answers to this question ame to me in Belfast.

1. At the 15th World's Convention, imagined the universe asking the Christian Endeavor movement for an ecount of its stewardship. To audinces ranging from 5,000 to 10,000 ecople, I heard the leaders tell "the ld, old story" of reaching individuals For Christ and the Church."

To the fullest extent, I felt how eeply Christian Endeavor is shedding he Gospel light on the entire spectum of God's people everywhere. My ars heard women and men from ar-off lands talk about communicating their faith, through Christian Endeavor, to the brothers and sisters of their own lands. My eyes saw others, so touched by Christian Endeavor, who felt that it was important they represent their countries at this world gathering. My senses felt the thrill of knowing that the movement which has played such a part in my life is still pulsing with vigor.

I was impressed, also, with the detailed planning of every session. This reminded me how Christian Endeavor still trains young people to be experts in the Lord's field. Finally, I was made aware that much money is needed to plan, promote, and carry on the worldwide mission which Christ has called Christian Endeavor to undertake.

2. I heard the same question addressed to my own heart: "What in the world are you doing?" As I grapple with this challenge, I leave you to answer it as well.

of the local paper was given to Chrisian Endeavor, and something which ad never happened before in Northrn Ireland was the great opportunity to have two radio programs 45 mintes each.

I'd like to point out the importance given to our work by the Irish authorities. The City Hall Reception, the Carden Party at Stormont by the Prime Minister, and the attendance of the Governor of Northern Ireland at the of the public meetings, together with the radio and press coverage, and us realize that we are participants of a strong Christian movement. We are not a small group of church goers but a powerful group of youth and adults with Christ in our hearts and minds. We can be a great influence in our world situation.

We must thank God for His blessngs. We must thank God for letting is work in Christian Endeavor and, as Endeavorers, we have to continue working, just as our motto says, "For Christ and the Church."

Vikingland Tour - Four

By Rev. Christian A. Tirre
Educational Secretary and Citizenship Director
International Society

Forty-five tourists with sixty-seven pieces of checked luggage and unnumbered pieces of carry-on bags departed from New York's International Airport July 24 on Christian Endeavor's International Fellowship Tour. The tour party members from California, Indiana, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Texas, Virginia, Washington, D.C., and Wisconsin spent twenty-eight unforgettable days together.

The itinerary included visits to Ireland, Northern Ireland (and the 15th World's Christian Endeavor Convention), Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Denmark, West Berlin, and East Berlin.

Highlights of the tour were the World's Convention in Belfast (report can be found in this issue and th October issue) and contacts wit Christian Endeavorers in Norway and Berlin.

The first glimpse of Scandinavi was through the exquisitely beautiful fjords of Norway. It was in Oslo that the tour members delighted in Christian fellowship with Norwegian Erdeavorers in the "C E Huset" (Christian Endeavor House). A typical Norwegian smorgasbrot was served. The long-to-be-remembered evening concluded with singing hymns in Norwegian and a message by Bishor Clyde W. Meadows.

Every mode of transportation we used on the Vikingland Tour: Berger Norway, was seen from the funicular railway; an overnight steamship too us from Finland to Sweden; the countryside of Sweden and the "fairytale land of Denmark were visited by bu Ferry, train, subway, canal barge, an even horse-drawn carriages complete the variety of transportation used.

LOADED DOWN with souvening carried in Christian Endeavor took bags, these Vikingland Tour paramembers are shown on arrival Belfast.

of Christian Fellowship

A fitting climax to Christian Enavor's Vikingland Tour was three ys in Berlin, the divided city. An ening visit by small groups to mes of Berlin Endeavorers was a ique experience. Two groups gathed with Endeavorers in their regular ristian Endeavor meetings, one in a Spandau Mission and one at alachtensee. Berlin Endeavorers also companied the tour group on a trip pund the city and to the awesome ll that divides west from east. The dity of the wall and a brief visit to st Berlin made each member of the tour party more appreciative of the freedoms that Americans often take for granted.

The last evening in Berlin was spent in the West End Fellowship Church with enthusiastic Endeavorers at a Christian Endeavor fellowship supper. Singing, slides of the Belfast Convention, and inspiring messages made for a fitting close to four weeks of travel together.

This was truly a tour with a purpose that only comes when traveling with fellow Endeavorers.

RLIN ACTIVITIES included tright) a dinner meeting the local Endeavorers at lest End Church on Satury night, following an atternoon of sight-seeing. It is impromptu octet (below) directed by Bishopyde W. Meadows was an expected feature of the loner program. On Friday ening the North American Endeavorers visited in the homes of Berliners.

ARCH J. McQUILKIN

ar Christian Endeavorer:

How very much we appreciate and lue your support of the International ciety of Christian Endeavor. In a ry real and tangible way you underd our movement and keep us in siness.

By way of a report may I tell you at I am most encouraged with our ork. The summer months were busy es. I was in camps, conferences, d conventions. You would have en thrilled to have seen and to have tnessed the power of the Holy Spirit all of the meetings. Hearts and lives ere changed and there was a new ginning for a great host of young ople—most of them teen-agers. You e, our real business is to present the aims of the Lord Jesus Christ. This e continue to do and always there e wonderful results. And your finanal support helps to make this kind service possible.

The outstanding event of the sumer was our attendance at and parcipation in the World's Convention Belfast, Northern Ireland. No word words of mine can fully describe I that we saw and felt. To be there, fellowship with delegates from over 5 nations, to see the flags of their ative tongues and to observe their ative costumes—all of this was thrillig and exciting. But more, it was hristian Endeavor in action.

You will be happy to know that be are adding new societies. I have ersonally witnessed the forming or establishment of several. I continue to visit pastors and denominational leaders and Christian Endeavor is held in high esteem.

Our office in Columbus hums with activity. Constant requests are received for information, literature, topic materials, etc.

How I wish I could run faster, cover more territory, see more people, and tell "the story of Christian Endeavor" more often. I am out on the field about five days out of every week — speaking several times each day and evening. Frequently I am able to be on the radio and on television.

Again I say, your contributions make much of these activities possible.

Now to be sure we have needs—great needs. We need field missionaries. We need sponsors and counselors in individual churches. We need money to continue to update our materials and to create new materials. How I wish we had a sum of money to launch a strong evangelistic program. Well, the lord knows our needs and we have faith and confidence that He will supply these needs. And He will do much of it through friends such as you.

Please continue to be much in prayer for our beloved movement.

Most sincerely,
